What does cyber-bullying look like?

Cyber-bullying behavior might include:

- abusive texts and emails
- hurtful messages, images or videos
- imitating others online
- excluding others online
- humiliating others online
- spreading nasty online gossip and chat
- creating fake accounts to trick someone or humiliate them

What is cyber abuse?

Cyber abuse is behavior that uses technology to threaten, intimidate, harass or humiliate someone "" with the intent to hurt them socially, psychologically or even physically.

It can take place on social media, through online chat and messaging services, text, messages, emails, on message boards and in online forums that allow people to publicly comment.

Examples of cyber abuse include

Sharing intimate or sexual photos or videos online without consent "" either to humiliate or shame someone, or for the ""entertainment" of others (this is also known as image-based abuse).

Targeted and persistent personal attacks aimed at ridiculing, insulting, damaging or humiliating a person "" this might relate to someone's physical appearance, religion, gender, race, disability, sexual orientation and/or political beliefs ("online hate" targeting an individual).

Encouraging someone to self-harm and/or suicide.

Seriously offensive and shocking material "" this can include posting inflammatory comments on memorial and tribute pages or posting images of deceased people with intent to upset family members or others.

Repeatedly sending obscene messages to a person or their family, friends or work colleagues.

Posting digitally manipulated explicit images of a person online, for example on social media or on pornographic websites (this is also known as image-based abuse)

Posting someone's personal information on social media or elsewhere online along with offensive and/or sexual comments "" resulting in calls and visits from strangers.

Threatening violence or inciting others to do the same "" such as threats of death and sexual assault that might lead to physical contact and/or assault.

Stalking a person online and hacking into their accounts, such as social media, banking or email accounts ("cyber-stalking").

Sometimes inappropriate or hurtful behavior may not be serious enough by itself to be considered ""cyber abuse".

For example

sarcastic comments

insults (or ""flaming")

strong opposing views

off-topic statements that deliberately derail conversation threads (a kind of ""trolling")

However, when these actions are part of a larger or serious pattern of behavior targeting an individual, they can become cyber abuse "" behavior that can have a seriously threatening, intimidating, harassing or humiliating effect on the person.
